He wasn't certain he knew the answer to the question. It was nearly five in the morning, and his phone had awoken him.

VAULT: 'Patience'

No one was certain that they would find a job as a freelancer that day. They stood in lines that reached the end of the block, hoping for a chance to meet the recruiters.

VAULT: 'Carelessness'

No one asked him what he was doing,
but he was certain they should have.

VAULT: 'Danger'

If he thought about it, he realized he would have been better off taking a vacation to a far off city, then to stay home and watch time pass. Maybe he would find a way to get to his favorite coffee shop and join a book club or two.

VAULT: 'vacation'
